

REMARKS

The specification has been amended to place the application in better form. Applicant thanks the Examiner for the careful reading of the application, and for pointing out discrepancies. Applicant also thanks the Examiner for indicating allowable subject matter.

In particular the abstract has been amended to remove the words which are superfluous and to remove legal phraseology.

The Office Action also objects to the disclosure for referring to specific claims by number. Specific portions of the specification are indicated to have this problem. Applicant has reviewed these portions of the substitute specification, and finds no indication at these portions of the substitute specification referring to claims by number.

A Preliminary Amendment with the substitute specification was filed in this application. With this Amendment Applicant is submitting another copy of the substitute specification as filed with the Preliminary Amendment at the time of initial filing of the application.

The change to the abstract, and the recognition of the substitute specification should now overcome the rejections in this application.

Applicant thanks the Examiner for indicating that this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters. If the Examiner has any comments or suggestions which would further favorable prosecution of this application, the Examiner is invited to contact Applicant's representative by telephone to discuss possible changes.
